

Students with Food Allergies and/or Glycogen Storage Disease

The Bethany Public School District (District) recognizes that food allergies and Glycogen Storage Disease (GSD) may be life-threatening. For this reason, the District is committed to developing strategies and practices to minimize the risk of accidental exposure to life-threatening food allergens and to ensure prompt and effective medical response should a student suffer an allergic reaction while at school. The District is also committed to appropriately managing and supporting students with GSD. The District further recognizes the importance of collaborating with parents/guardians and appropriate medical staff in developing such practices and encourages strategies to enable the student to become increasingly proactive in the care and management of his/her food allergy and/or GSD, as developmentally appropriate. To this end, the Board directs the Superintendent to adopt guidelines related to the management of life-threatening food allergies and GSD for students enrolled in the school.

It is the Bethany Board of Education's (Board) expectation that specific building-based guidelines/actions will take into account the health needs and well-being of all children without discrimination or isolation of any child. It is the Board's belief that education and open and informative communication are vital for the creation of an environment with reduced risks for all school personnel, students and their families.
